Should you make a fitness resolution for the New Year?

The new year is a time for change, and for many, that means a change in lifestyle and fitness. Making a fitness resolution can help motivate you to start a new workout routine or find ways to exercise more often. Getting new workout gear or finding an exercise class you love can make the process easier.

Can a lifting workout help you achieve your New Year's resolutions?

Or, you can smash a lifting workout early in the morning and reap the benefits for the rest of the workday. It may seem obvious, but in order to achieve your New Year's resolution (s), you have to begin working towards them in the first place. But the psychology behind goal-directed behavior goes even deeper than that.

Should you get started on fitness this year?

Yes, getting started on fitness this year could be as simple as one foot in front of the other. Walking can do more to combat disease and health conditions than pretty much anything else, according to a previous CNN story. Studies have also shown that the activity can boost your mood, improve memory and lower stress.
