How much does a 2813 Chinese movement cost?

This is a 2813 Chinese movement I bought at Startime Supply for US $29.95. I believe it is the most popular movement inside the Replica watches and a very simple, cheap and reliable automatic movement.

Are 2813/st16/st17 movements any good?

The 2813/ST16/ST17 movements are much better designs, and are in a different league. It's funny that when discussing Chinese movements, the Seiko/TMI NH3x series is the gold standard in sub-$100 automatics, but if you read an anti-Invicta thread, they are unreliable POS calibers.

Does Nanning make a 2813 movement?

I accidentally bought a dial meant for an NH35 movement, and was hoping to use it in a 2813 build. Does anyone know if the date (calendar) locations are spaced differently between the two? The dials themselves are the same size - 28.5mm.

Nanning also makes a 2813 movement, and Starking produces its own, hi-beat (28,800) 2813 as well - Shenzhen Jingrui Movement Limited. ... These movements are all single direction winding so that if the reverser clutch isn't doing its job, the energy in the main spring can work its way backward and spin the rotor. This will be most prevalent ...

However the regulation of the DG 2813 was much more difficult than I expected and at some stage I even thought that the movement was defective because its accuracy would be unstable and nearly threw away the watch in the dead watches drawer.. Finally after much experimenting I managed to regulate it to about +2s per day.

The DG movement is generally considered one of the better of the 21j movements. I've always believed that the rep factories buy up all the movements that don't pass DG's in house quality checks. If you buy a new movement from a legitimate wholesaler you will be surprised at how much better they run. At least I have been.

So I bought a new movement, and found that replacing the dial is more than my skill set will allow, so in working on this, I messed up the new 2813 movement. I have done several mods and one build with the NH35 movement. Question is: will the NH35 fit and work with this case to replace the 2813? Thanks for any help or advice in advance.

Just an hour ago I finished a 4 month project with a 3804 (GMT of the 2813) movement and I'm super excited. Between ordering the wrong parts, needing a few better tools, messing up a dial or two, I ended up spending much more than the $280 bp version, I'm super pumped to start the next one.

But you will have to remove your hands and put the hands on the new movment, but there's videos on how to remove the hands and put the hands on. Don't take the movement out with the tweezers like I did here. I was just taking it out to show it was free. You can just flip it over on the table and lift the case off of the movement to remove it.

I KNOW these movements have been advertised for years now, but based upon my admittedly limited observational only experience with this movement, I wonder if they have been upgraded/changed? Here is why... I have read numerous articles (mostly old, as there does not seem to be many new posts) on the so-called &quot;New Breed Nickle Plated Asian 2813, ...
